Acquitted man hopes arrest of another man will help clear his name

Jesus Garza (photograph at left) was acquitted of murder seven years ago in a case that was reversed yesterday with the arrest of Carlos Hernandez (photograph at right), who was escorted to the Nueces County Jail by Corpus Christi police detectives Paul Rivera (left) and Eddie Garza. Hernandez is charged with the death of Dahlia Bascardo, whose body was found in the back of her van on Nov. 20, 1979. Hernandez was a defense witness at Garza's trial in January, 1980, although the man who was acquitted before either the crime of the trial according to Garza's attorney. Though acquitted, Garza claims his life has remained under a cloud. He says his wife left him, that he's unemployed and that he's tried to commit suicide several times. "If he is guilty, I do hope he gets what he deserves," Garza said today of Hernandez. "I hope this will clear my name."
